The Presidential election is over. The angry strife, which for mouths past has infiem ed the prejudices and perverted the sober judg en everywhere throughout the Union to ended. Reason will now perhaps be permit ted to resume her away, and we may once more mmon senae of the people. In ceasure of which we have just passed, men's passions an ndices cloud their reason and induce them to view everything as partisans. We do most arnestly hope that now patriotism wiit take the place of party feeling and that reason will coume the throne from which It has as long derosed by passionate prejudice.

What has been the result of the election yes terday, whether the disnalon Democracy, with not more than one-third of the popular vote o the maintenance of the Union and the preser vation of our republican institutions, has bea successful, we are as yet unable to determine at whether auccessful or not in this conte we feel an abiding confidence that the prin ciples of the American party must ultimately of a majority at least of the native-born eitisets of our country. They are founded on born of the pureat patriotism, and, ao long as some of our soil, they must flourish. Those who and in another and another, but the principle will still aurvive and will continually gain new tablished policy of our government, or the whole fabric of our Union, the glorious temple of American liberty, will have fallen, crushed enesth the iron heel of reckless demageguism and a fierce disunion spirit which threatens to uterly demoralize and corrupt the popula

THE REAULT.—The Buchanan majority in Kentucky is easily accounted for. We do not believe that even all the "Black Carpet Bagman," which were imported into the State, could have overcome the majority of conservamen," which were imported late the State, could have overcome the majority of censervative Kentuckians, who really preferred Fillmore, unless the impression had prevailed that it was necessary to vote for Buchanan to defeat Fremont. Buchanan is elected, but we are still maisfied that a large majority of the people of Kentucky, and of the nation really prefer Mr. Fillmore, and that Buchanan has been elected by the votes of those who believed it necessary to whose him as the least of two evils, leaving the only good altogether out of consideration. We are satisfied that if the real preference of a majority of the voters throughout the whole country had been avowed at the ballot-box, that if the continual cry of the sectionalists had been numbeeded, and men had not actually been frightened into making a choice between Buchanan and Fremont, Milard Fillmore would have received a large majority of the whole popular vote. in his speech in that city:

He had scarcely commenced before his virulent temper manifested itself in so coarse a manner that his very warmest and most enthuslastic admirers had just cause to hang their heads in shame. Language seemed wholly inacquate to express his contempt for the American cannihistate and those who supported him The mere mention of the name of Fillmore so exaspersted him that he seemed tempted in his wirst to leap from the balcony and take by the rath to leap from the balcony and take by the to demoralization and ruln. The process irs the unfortunate wight who had the ten to utter the hated sound. A voice, while he ras speaking (perhaps that of a boy), shouted ranother pause he continued, "In the cashed tears over the dead—not em." He then made some polite brass knuckles, Louisville, &c., e associates of Fillmors men in stry are free negroea—they are leagued bolitionis's. But we do ot suppose they will be at the expense of furalsbing meat of their own for the occasion They will probably stest our cattle, sheep, an negs, to get meat to hang upon the hushes for our niggers

We suppose there is no doubt that, in the election of the 4th instant, hundreds of foreigners voted in this State through the frauulent use of naturalization papers. It is exremely desirable, for the sake of an example that every effort should be made to expose every case of the kind and bring the offender to pun hment. Most persons, however, take too little political or personal interest in matters of his kind to be willing to incur the trouble of ausing justice to be executed. The franduent use of naturalization papers is, by the laws guage: of the United States, declared felony and made ounishable by imprisonment in the penitentiary for not less than three hor more than five years. The act 3d March, 1813, sec. 13, provides eat "If any person shal; falsely make, forge, ounterfeil, or cause, or procure to he falsely nade, forged, or counterfeited, any certificate evidence of citizenship referred to in such ct, or shall pass, utter, or use as true, any false, orged, or counterfeit certificate of citizenship. r shall make sale or dispose of any certificate f citizenship to any person, other than the peron for whom il was originally issued, and lo whom it may of right belong, he shall he adjudged milty of FELONY; and on being thereof conricted by due course of law, shall be senteneed to be imprisoned and kept to hard labor for a regard to Louis Napoleon's dissolute life is eriod not less than three nor more than five ears, or be fined in a cum not less than five mired dollars nor more than one thousand for about the some period, and that he was dollars, at the discretion of the Court taking gnizance thereof." .. By the Kentucky law a eevere penalty is iso deciared against the fraudulent use of na ralization papers or the use of spurrous paers, and we are requested to say that, if any off ice of the kind con pointed out, and if he requisite proof is attainable, the lodging of uformation with us by some friend of public from a life of sleepless and unwavering devo stice will be all that he need do-nnless indeed he shall be called on at a proper time for is ieslimony.

We give the incident in his own lan sible to ascertain with any correctness. Eighth Ward.—The poils in this ward were eld at Bishop's, in Hillen street, near Ensor, ind considering the locality the neighborbook.

About 12 o'clock there was a serious difficulmay be accounted for from the fact that the Democracy had everything their own way. The only serious occurrence was early in the day, when Mr Thomas Divins, a constable of the Fwentieth ward, while passing along Hillen street in his buggy, in company with Mr. Ed-vard Elliott, was assaulted by an Irish mob-vith a shower of brickbate, which knocked inmost of his buggy and wounded him in a locking manner, particularly about the head. Mr Elliott, who was with him, was also much rjurred and had his thigh broken. Mr. Divins and his skulf fractured in two places, and the id his skull fractured in two places, and the jury is regarded as of a very alarming nature.

Twelfth Ward.—As a general thing this ward. Gen. Webb also agrees with Mr. Stewart la attributing the origin of the current rumors in was very quiet, and would have so continued, regard to Louis Napoleou's dissolute life to New York to the fact that his cousin of the New Morket party interest with the American voters there, and endeavered to force their traud upon them. In he ored to force their traud upon them. In he meliee and histicuffing consequent, a young man named David Root, in retreating fired a pistol at the natives. This was the first shot during he day, and had it not heen fired, the use of arms of a similar character would not have been resorted to. As it was, come one discharged his revolver after Root, one balt from which atruck him in the breast, but did not penalizate for enough to lead to aerious consequences. Baril Root, Evq., was unintentionally struck in the head with a brick causing a painful swelling. Mr. Lewis Essender, having eff the polis of this ward, was attacked and same name was in the city at the same time and notoriously dissolute and ahandoned. This is no doubt the truth of the matter. We hope that t is, for the sake of the moral of the thing, if not of the truth of hiography. It is of some tile moment to the world that even ao hollow and transient a splendor as Louis Napoleon' may prove to be has not sprung from a life of centiousness and vice, but, on the contrary The Rev. Mesens. Editors:—I botice in your weekly issue Oct. 8, an inquiry by S. H. C., as to what effect would be produced on scenting the peach crop from the effects of cold by throwing in (about the first of December) to the tops of the trees a few leads of straw until the spaces between the imbs are filled up, then binding with vines so as to bring the top of the tree into the form of a haystack; and inviting the experience of correspondents on the subject.

Two years ago I gave this pian a fair trial, and am sattrified that is this climate it will not only injure the fruit but endeaper the life of the tree. What would be the effect of a stack of hay or straw bullt over the tree, as you sarget, I cannot say, but your correspondent with find it impossible, without commencing his stack at the ground, to get the head so compact as to exclude the wet, and, as your freezes generally ever soon after a rain; that wet straw will become frozen about the tender bude and branches; the atraw will prevent its thawing out, and they are kept enveloped in a case by lee few a long time.

Our sentiments exactly. If, in addition to a strong guard of sheep dogs, we had a law to tax all "corns of low degree," sheep-husbendry would become a vary important interest in Kantucky. Speaking of sheep, Jefferson country cas boast some as thorough bred as can be found anywhere. An excellent indge remarked that the finest ten Southdowns he ever caw together were those shown by P. S. Barber, Esq., at the late Fair.

la NATURALIZATION BY A COUNTY COURT ALID?-The question was enswered in th egative last year, by Hon. James Harlan, Atorney General of Kentucky, and, for the infor nation of the officers of the election, we her republish his opinion:

OFFICE OF ATTERNEY GENERAL ) FRANKFORT, July 26, 1855. GREAT FIRE IN PHILADELPHIA, B. PAYNE, E.Q., Newport, Ky .: Sie-The question upon which you desire my pinion, is whether the County Courts in this state, as at present organized, have the power or receive ideclarations of aliens, and, on appli-ration, to admitted to become citizen; of the United States? Patent Champion Safes!

By the 31 section of the act of Congress of By the 33 section of the act of Congress of 302, to establish a uniform rule of naturalization, avery Court of Record in any individual state having Common Law Jurisdiction and a cal and clerk, or prothonolury, has the power or adjudicate and carry into effect the provisions of that act and the several amendments hareto.

Each of the County Courts in this State has clerk and seal, and Is R Court of Record by e Statute creating them. Revised S atutes, 5. But are they Courts of Common Law

The jurisdiction to try appeals from justices The jurisdiction to try appeals from justices of the peace, given by the Revised Statu'es, is taken away by the Code of Practice. So that a county court cannot, in any aspect, he regarded as a court of common law jurisdiction, for the trial of cases, civil or criminal, at lea or ln equity, and consequently is not one of the courts embraced by line acts of Congress to whom jurisdiction is given to carry into effect the laws relating to the na unalization of alreus. If my conclusions are right, it follows that certificates of natural zation—If any there begraoted by courty courts are void. This opin ion does not apply to the Jufferson County Court, because its organization is under a spe-Court, because its organization is under a special act, different in many respects from the
